THE NATIONAL CONGRESS.

THE SENATE TAKES UP THE GOVERNMENT BOND QUESTION.

An effort to consider judicial matters which fails for want of a quorum. More filibustering in the House and nothing done.

[By United Press.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 20.—The Senate this morning resumed consideration of the Senate bill to reduce the amount of United States bonds, to be required of national banks and to restore to the channels of trade the excessive accumulations of lawful money in the treasury.

Without action the bill was laid aside, and the House resumed consideration of the House bill to define and regulate the jurisdiction of the courts of the United States and of the substitute therefor, reported by Mr. Everts from the judiciary committee.

Mr. Dolph offered another amendment constituting the States of Oregon, Washington, Montana and Idaho the tenth judicial district, and providing for the appointment of two circuit judges.

Mr. Everts opposed the amendment as presenting a collateral question only and as an embarrassment to the bill. It is the course of a long discussion on this amendment, Mr. Ingalls, who had offered an amendment to rearrange the circuits, gave it as his opinion that the resolution of the difficulty would be the division of the supreme court into quorums of three, to whom should be assigned, from time to time, the consideration of the great mass of cases which came before that tribunal, and which as a matter of fact could be decided intelligently by any ordinary justice of the peace.

He thought that under the plan suggested by him the entire mass of arrears of business could be disposed of within two years, and that from that time on the business could be kept up.

Finally the vote was taken on Mr. Dolph's amendment, but as it disclosed the absence of a quorum the roll was called, and only forty senators answered.

Mr. Dolph withdrew his amendment and Mr. Daniel offered one extending the right of appeals to the supreme court to all cases of conviction of felony and to all cases where the matter in dispute is the right to personal liberty or the right to the custody of a child.

House.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Filibustering tactics on the part of the Democrats in the House led to an early adjournment to-day. The Journal was read without objection, but Mr. O'Ferrall objected to its approval. The yeas and nays having been ordered on this, there was an exodus of members on the Democratic side of the House, and in a moment their seats were deserted. The vote resulted—yeas 151; nays none; no quorum, and the House, at 1 p. m., adjourned.

DECORATE! DECORATE!!

Let the City do the Handsome Thing This Week.

On Wednesday and Thursday there will be a great gathering of representative men—young men, middle aged men and old men, in the city.

They will come from all parts of the State to attend the convention of Democratic clubs. There will be between seven hundred and one thousand leading and representative men here.

The city should wear gay colors in honor of their coming. The various committees are busy with many matters and have no time to look after this matter.

Now, the CHRONICLE appeals to everybody to show their colors. Let everybody, every business house particularly, decorate for the day and illuminate for the night. Let there be no failure in this. Some bunting and flags, of which an abundance may be had in the city, will do the work handsomely. Let everybody show the welcome they feel and LET RALEIGH DO THE HANDSOME THING.

Winston Wins the Championship.

(Special to STATE CHRONICLE.)

WINSTON, N. C., Sept. 20.—The finest game of ball ever played in the South was played here to-day. It was the deciding game between Roanoke, Va., and Winston and was witnessed by a tremendous crowd. It was for the championship of the South and resulted, after ten innings, in a score for Winston 4, Roanoke 3; every run being earned.

Further Particulars of the Railroad Fatality.

Further particulars show that the man who was killed on Friday evening by the Keyville train was named Solomon Carpenter. The accident occurred near Cary in the vicinity of Carpenter's home. The engineer states that while the train was running at schedule speed, he saw a man walk right up on the track, and apparently unconscious of the approach of the train. His eyes were cast downward as though he were in deep thought. It was impossible to stop the train and Carpenter was almost instantly killed. He is said to have been deaf, and his not being able to hear may account for his walking almost into the rushing engine. The body was brought here and put in charge of undertaker Brown who arranged it for burial, and sent it up to Cary yesterday morning where it was taken charge of by relatives.

Men's Furnishings.

Unquestionably the best line in Raleigh, at about half Haberdasher's price. We are very modest in speaking of them. We always want the fact to more than bear out the statement. There's sure, certain way for you to get the truth—compare prices.

INSTRUCTED BY VANCE.

Wayne County Is Into Line—A Very Strong Let Nominated.

[Special State Chronicle.] GOLDSBORO, C. Sep. 20.—At the county democratic convention held here to-day a strong ticket was nominated as follows:

Benjamin F. Aycock for the Senate. John W. Bryan and Hiram J. Ham, for the House.

W. T. Dortch for tax collector. Jno. T. Dees for treasurer.

Jas. H. Grant for sheriff. C. F. Herring for clerk.

Dr. J. H. Powell for coroner. Louis Goodwin for surveyor.

Matthew J. Ham was nominated for the House and declined. The following resolutions were adopted:

The Democracy of Wayne county in convention assembled, recognizing the eminent service and fidelity of Senator Z. B. Vance, RESOLVE, That the Senators and Representatives from this county be and are hereby instructed to vote for him for U. S. Senator.

[The Wayne Democracy, true to its record, has done gloriously. Mr. Aycock served in the last Senate and was the author of the resolution providing for the Investigating Committee, of which he is a member, which has secured the payment of tax by railroads which have heretofore escaped taxation. His county is thus endorsing the important work he has set in motion.

The nominees for the House are successful and popular farmers. Mr. BRYAN was for years a prominent member of the Goldsboro bar, but five years ago, because his health demanded out door exercise, he moved to his farm and is one of the best farmers in Eastern North Carolina, as well as one of the truest, best informed and most modest and worthy of upright conservative gentlemen. Mr. HAM is a man of fine sense and patriotism and will be a true representative of his people. Both are members of the Alliance. Mr. MATTHEW J. HAM, whose service in the last House deserved endorsement, was re-nominated, but declined. We had hoped he would return. His place will be filled by his kinsman in HIRAM J. HAM.

The county ticket is strong. THE CHRONICLE is particularly gratified at the renomination of W. T. DORTCH as Tax Collector. He has made a popular and efficient officer.]

RAILROAD CASUALTIES.

Two Bad Smashups—In Which Twelve People Were Killed.

[By United Press.]

CITY OF MEXICO, Sept. 20.—A freight train and ballast train, both running rapidly, collided on the Vera Cruz railroad between Rinconada and San Marcos yesterday morning. The engines were dashed into pieces—killing both engineers and fatally injuring a fireman. The cars on the ballast train on which were many laborers, were piled on top of one another and thrown into a ditch, killing six or seven more.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Sept. 20.—An extra freight train on the Erie road, eastbound, stopped at the Summit Switch, just west of Middletown, to allow the Wells-Fargo express to pass this morning. It is supposed that the conductor, flagman and trainmen in the caboose of the freight train were all asleep, having neglected to send out a flag. The result was that the express train, as it rounded the curve, dashed into the rear of the freight train before it could be run into the switch. The caboose was crushed and the conductor, Chas. Leppert and the flagman, Wm. H. Duffey, were instantly killed, and their bodies badly mangled. Two brakemen, John M. Hiller and Frank Hegeman were injured.

French Conquests in the Society Islands.

[By United Press.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 20.—The barkentine "Tropic bird" arrived here from Papeete, Tahiti, yesterday with the news that the French forces have subdued the natives of the Society Islands and established protectorates over them. The warships "Dubordier," "Champlain," "Vire" and a gun boat are at Papeete with a combined naval and land force of 3,000 men. The natives were subdued with but little fighting.

At the island of Baister, however, there was serious trouble. The natives hauled down the French flag and the marines fired upon them. Upwards of one hundred natives were killed and a number of marines injured. The island was finally occupied by the French, the natives being beaten off.

An Insurance Company in a Tangle.

[By United Press.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—The Star Fire Insurance Company, which with its president, Nicholas C. Miller, got into the papers a month ago, has been dragged out again and now it looks as if very serious developments, affecting the management of the company are soon to be brought to light. The Commercial Bulletin published a story yesterday which said that the entire assets of the concern amounting to over $200,000 in securities, had disappeared from the safe deposit box in which they had reposed.

TONNOFFSKI'S CANDIDATE?

Is He The Candidate of Jno. Williamson or Tonnoffski.

Geo. L. Tonnoffski, who sometime ago announced himself as a candidate for Congress in this district, has issued a circular stating that he will withdraw and support Prof. Melver, John Williamson's candidate. He says that he withdraws because the Alliance and Knights of Labor have agreed to support no man who will not enact their measures. Tonnoffski says that Prof. Melver says that, if elected, he will endeavor to carry out these demands, and therefore Mr. T. says he feels under obligations to support him more especially since "Mr. Buon has absolutely refused to carry out the wishes of the farmers and laboring men of this district." He calls upon all farmers and laborers to unite with him in electing Melver.

Sent out with Tonnoffski's circular is a long address from Prof. Melver, announcing his candidacy. It is almost exactly in the words of Prof. Melver's letter in the CHRONICLE a few days ago. He declares his devotion to the farmers—says he is a member of the Farmers' Alliance, etc., etc. These two cards will go out together to the voters of the 4th District who will find them very valuable as lamp-lighters.

Poor old Prof. Melver. When Tonnoffski commends him and withdraws in his favor, and John Williamson seizes his nomination and makes him the candidate of the negroes, he will need to pray to be delivered from his friends.

N. B. John Williamson's (col.) card is not sent out with that of Turn-off-sky. Inasmuch as he is the god-father of Prof. Melver's candidacy, he does not think it necessary to send out a card. Prof. Melver is as much John Williamson's candidacy as if he bore a tag on which was printed

"I am John's Candidate!" Since Turn-off-sky's card is out an addition might be made to the card, "Mine too."

G. L. TURN-OFF-SKY.

John Williamson (col.)! Turn-off-sky! and Prof. Melver! When shall these three meet again?

THE ALLIANCE TO MEET

To Consider the Proposition of the Foreign Bondholders.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 19.—Rev. S. M. Adams, president of the Farmers' Alliance, was in the city yesterday, and in the afternoon had a long conference with prominent Alliance leaders at the Alliance exchange. It is understood that the purpose of the conference was to discuss the proposition of foreign capitalists to advance $32 per bale on 2,000,000 bales of the present crop, and to call a meeting at once of the different Alliances to be held in this city, to take immediate and definite action with reference to negotiations now pending. The call for such a meeting will appear in this week's issue of the Alliance Herald. President Adams is heartily in favor of the proposition of the foreign capitalists, and predicts it would result in a great revolution in the South.

"Give us the privilege of holding our cotton one year, with the right to sell at any time during that period, and we would ask nothing more," one of the gentlemen present is quoted as saying. Continuing, he declared that cotton ought to bring 12 cents, and would if this arrangement could be properly consummated. It is expected that the proposed meeting of the Alliance leaders in this city will be largely attended by members from this and adjoining States, Georgia, Tennessee, Florida, Mississippi and Louisiana.

WEEKLY CROP BULLETIN.

The reports of correspondents of the Weekly Weather Crop Bulletin issued by the North Carolina Experiment Station and State Weather Service, co-operating with the United States Signal Service, show that the week ending Saturday, September 20th, 1890, has been unfavorable for crops and farm work of all kinds. The first four days of the week continued to be very damp with frequent rains, and the injury done to cotton is considerable. Excessive warmth and moisture has caused cotton to rot or sprout in the bolls, while that which had already opened has been stained and otherwise considerably damaged. The latter part of the week, Wednesday to Saturday, has been cooler and clear, and altogether more favorable, permitting farmers to resume picking where it had been interrupted. In many places tobacco is nearly all housed. In the western portion of the State a light frost in low places occurred on the 18th. At Fork Church, Davie county, a heavy rain and hail storm on the 16th injured crops to some extent.

OBITUARY.

Near Franklinsville, N. C., at his home, Saturday, 6th of September, 1890, at 1:35 p. m. Mr. William H. Briggs, one of the oldest and one of the most prominent citizens of Columbia township, Randolph county, departed this life. He was born in Randolph county September 20th, 1817. He was a successful man, persevering, and preserving in all his dealing with his fellow-men the strictest integrity. He was a member of the Methodist church about fifty years and ever ready to further the cause of Christ. He was married October 1847 to Mary A. Allred, by whom he had three sons and one daughter born unto him, all of which survive him. He was a kind and indulgent husband and father. The family and community have lost a true friend. His health began to fail him about June last, his disease being of a nature that reduced the physical strength while his mind was bright and active. He was unusually bright and energetic in forwarding his temporal business, and convenience of his family, but was not idle as may have seemed concerning the affairs of his soul. When asked a few days before his departure how it would be with him if soon called away, he answered all was well spiritually. May his companion and sons and daughter meet him in heaven. MANUAL TRAINING SCHOOL.

THE BALTIMORE SYSTEM OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION.

A Distinguished North Carolina Educator Writes of His Visit to The Baltimore Schools.

[Special Cor. State Chronicle.]

BALTIMORE, Md., Sep. 15th, 1890.—Coming to this generous Southern city for a brief annual vacation, of course it is my greatest delight to visit its institutions of learning. They are many, tasteful and elegant. With strong financial backing, richly equipped with professors, presenting in every case a suitable and satisfactory curriculum, they appeal to the observer in a vivid language all their own. A morning spent in the Manual Training School is an experience not soon to be forgotten. Literature and steam engines, history, English composition, chemistry, geology and stop cylinders, physical geography and book-keeping constitute a jumble and a tangle very much to the confusion of the intellect. And yet if the clear minded visitor commences right and goes straight, a very beautiful system may be evolved from all this. Here is very capacious arrangement of buildings, one of them perfectly new, five stories high, costing nearly thirty thousand dollars, the ground story being devoted to a swimming pool and playground, a magnificent assembly room being overhead, while all the other space is appropriated to the literary work of the institution. The old building, which we visited before, is taken up with workshops, departments for wood work and metal, engine and furnace rooms; and all the varied facilities of a many sided industry. The machinery is driven by an exquisite steam-engine, built by one of the senior classes, and to a mechanical soul must be a joy forever.

It is refreshing to stand in a place of vantage and see four hundred boys change recitation rooms, with heads up and a precision of military step and manner. One hour is given to drawing, one hour and a half to mechanical study, and the remainder of the time to literary application. A well-developed, bright-eyed boy of seventeen stood by the furnace, another by the engine, and each kept his place for three days, making his daily report in writing to the principal. They were the youngest engineer and fireman I ever saw, but, like the boy who "stood on the burning deck," they seemed to know their business. I saw a class of youngsters gathered around a professor, who was lecturing on one of the tools of carpentry. It was defective in its making, and its defects were being pointed out. Another curious apartment was full of anvils, and more brilliant little blacksmiths were ringing the hammers on them than you would see in a month's travel. Another room seemed to be devoted to miniature tinner, and the little fellows were making tin cups, coffee pots and every other vessel dedicated to this metal. Other classes were working upon house architecture, in pattern-making, in moulding, in vise work, in soldering and brazing, in wood turning, wood carving, and in almost everything else known to mechanical discovery. And it was not heedless, superficial work either, but carefully studied and skillfully prepared as if the heart of both pupils and teachers were in it.

But the most wonderful problem to me in all this wonderful institution, was how such an advanced and comprehensive course of study could be made to go hand in hand with such a complicated manual training. And yet there it was going with the smoothness and regularity of clock work. At a given signal the forges, lathes, sledges and gear wheels were magically forsaken, every face and pair of hands were cleansed in running water, and the recitation rooms were filled to overflowing with juvenile blacksmiths and carpenters. Then came the higher inspiration of brain work. And what brain work it was! The very lowest form grappled with quadratic equations in algebra, and sailed into geometry like it was a holiday amusement. Then came English composition, history, physics and physiology, with sundry primary studies to make up good measure. The second year, after finishing geometry, took up trigonometry and mensuration, studied English literature and rhetoric, went deeper into history and physics, and required to hear lectures and take intelligent and logically arranged notes on steam engineering.

The third year was required to master both plain and spherical trigonometry, to produce original compositions, to study chemistry, geology and civil government, and to finish off with book-keeping as a utility by no means to be despised. Now one would think, that a boy would never get down to a cold chisel again from such a curriculum as this. And yet they invariably do it. The signal to change professors breaks the spell, and the pupil, like an acrobat from the spring-board to the sawdust, instantly transfers his intellect to his fingers.

The Manual Training School is deservedly one of the favorite institutions of this city. There has been some little feeling created by the assignment of the former accomplished principal, Lieutenant Ford, to other duty. And if we may be permitted to say so, just at this point is the most threatening peril in the path of this noble educational endowment. Its principal should be a perpetuity, without the possibility of a change. The navy should have nothing to do with it. Surely all the engineering genius of the country does not belong to Secretary Tracy. A school as vital to the industrial interests of the people as this, should not be left dependent upon any uncertain power whatever.

And we offer this suggestion without reference to the present energetic principal, Lieutenant John W. Smith, who seems to possess the earnestness and the ability to deserve success. He and the first assistant, Prof. Ebaugh, will add daily to the efficiency and popularity of this honored institution. In truth the entire faculty will continue to merit the approval and confidence of the country.

CHICOD DEMOCRATIC CLUB.

The Alliancemen in Pitt are Strong For Vance.

[Special Cor. of STATE CHRONICLE.]

GIRANESLAND, N. C., Sept. 18.—Pitt falls into line with a Democratic club. A Democratic mass meeting was held at Black Fork, Wednesday 17th, in pursuance of a call of the chairman of the township Democratic Executive Committee, J. Bryan Grimes, who was chosen to preside over the meeting.

The purpose of the call was to perfect an organization as an aid to the executive committee of the township.

The constitution adopted was some what similar to that of other Democratic clubs as published in your columns, but made to conform to the special ends of the occasion, among other features having a number of vice-presidents who are to form sub-clubs in their respective neighborhoods to co-operate with this body.

"Chicod Democracy" was organized with John D. Back for president, J. O. Proctor, secretary, etc., etc.

Chicod is the first township in the county to organize for this campaign, and is the banner Democratic township of Pitt, having given Fowle 200 majority in 1888.

Our interests being entirely agricultural, and our people being mostly strong Alliancemen, we displayed our patriotism by "unjustified" endorsing Vance for United States Senator to succeed himself.

Our Democracy is for Vance "all over," and we believe that no candidate for the State Senate or House who will openly oppose him can poll one half the Democratic strength of this section.

In November we will give Branch 250 majority, with the county ticket following closely behind.

CHICOD.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL.

Mr. W. J. Rogers, Democratic candidate for Congress in the Second district, has been sick ever since his nomination.

Miss Ella Bruton, an accomplished young lady of Reidsville, has accepted a position in the faculty of the Littleton Female College.—Weldon News.

Crawford is a second Mirabeau so far as his control over the popular will is concerned. Mr. Ewart may well fear to meet our champion on the stump for his ability as a debater is unquestioned.—Swain County Herald.

Prof. E. McK. Goodwin, of the Raleigh Deaf and Blind Institute, while here this week, gave an interesting address to the Graded school children, and it is said that they were highly delighted.—Tarboro Southerner.

Among the nominations sent into the Senate by the President is that Mr. Joseph Barchelor, Jr., of Raleigh, until recently Second Lieutenant of the Twenty-Fourth Infantry of the United States Army, who has been promoted to First Lieutenant of the same.

Mr. A. M. Woodall has become one of the editors of the Smithfield Herald. The Herald is a favorite exchange in the CHRONICLE office, and we welcome Mr. Woodall into the ranks of journalism. He won't make much money and will have to work hard, but he will do much good and have a good time.

Governor McKinney, of Virginia, says that it is not at all necessary for a public man to drink, as is often asserted. It has been his invariable practice to decline all "treats" in political campaigns, and he believes that instead of losing he has gained votes by his abstinence.

Miss Mildred Lee, daughter of the great Chief, Robert E. Lee, is in Asheville, stopping at the Battery Park. One of our citizens, who was in Asheville last week reports her as bearing a striking resemblance to her father. She is very reserved in her manners and of true southern type.—Henderson Times.

The Democrats of old Chatham, have acted wisely in the selection of Mr. John W. Atwater, for the Senate, to represent Chatham and Alamance in the next Senate. He is a successful farmer, a true Democrat, a high toned honorable gentleman, who will reflect credit upon the party.—Durham Recorder.

Geo. F. Ivey, son of Rev. G. W. Ivey and a graduate of Trinity College of the class of '90, expects to go next month to Tauton, Mass., to enter the Mason Machine Works to spend three years to serve an apprenticeship in the study of cotton and printing machinery, getting while there little more than his board.—Statesville Christian Advocate.
